About the Authors

Jeremy Pollack is a Connecticut-based photographer with a wide range of interests. As a result of growing up in the woods, his first love has always been nature photography which he started shooting with his father's Canon FT QL. As his passion grew over the years, so did the breadth of his interests. Today he shoots commercial and fine art photography, selling prints at art shows and online. To connect to his blog, portfolios, fine art storefront, and other online presences, please visit www.jeremypollack.net.

Andy Williams (New York, NY) is a Photographer, COO, General Manager, and House Professional Photographer at SmugMug. Andy has been a photographer all his life, and shooting professionally for 20 years. When he is not doing portrait and event work, his artistic interests tend toward landscape and street photography. He teaches and holds several workshops a year. Andy lives in the New York City area and is a member of Photographic Arts, NY, the Professional Photographers of America, the National Association of Photoshop Professionals, the IR League, and Canon Professional Services. Andy can be found on Twitter, Facebook, and LinkedIn. His beautiful photos can be seen via his Web site at www.moonriverphotography.com.

Acknowledgments

This book would not have been possible without so many wonderful people. Their belief and trust in me is humbling. A huge thank you to every one of you.

To Rick Sammon, who believed in me enough to recommend me for this project and has been incredibly supportive of my photographic journey.

To Michael Vertefeuille, who has supported me in both words and actions and made it possible to live and breathe this project.

To everyone at Wiley who made this book a reality.

And, of course, to my wonderful wife Crista Grasso, who has supported and pushed me every step of the way. I would not be here today without her.
